ABSTRACT

A project was conducted to develop activities leading to the coordination of regional vocational-technical education and training programs with data-based labor market needs in East Texas. An existing group, the Technology Partnership Organization, became the work force planning agency for the area. During the project, the following objectives were accomplished: (1) appropriate regional boundaries were selected; (2) membership size, structure, and responsibilities were established; (3) inventories were taken of regional occupational education programs, economic development initiatives, and current and projected job openings; (4) the match between job openings and vocational-technical education and training programs was evaluated; and (5) a regional plan to coordinate vocational-technical education and training programs with labor market needs was developed. (The 10 appendixes, making up most of this report, include a list of the board of directors and committee members, bylaws, articles of incorporation, inventory of occupational education programs in East Texas, economic development survey instruments, economic development initiatives in East Texas, supplementary labor market data, monthly reports, the operational plan, and a list of work force planning regions.) Executive Summary

The University of Texas at Tyler was contracted by a tri-agency partnership (the Texas Education Agency, the Higher Education Coordinating Board and the Texas Department of Commerce) to be one of a total of nine pilot projects to design and implement regional quality work force planning entities in the state of Texas. The overall objective of the effort was to conduct specific activities leading to the coordination of regional vocational-technical education and training programs with data-based labor market needs.

The University had been operating an organization in the fourteen counties of East Texas with similar, but limited, goals since 1985. This group, the Technology Partnership Organization (TPO), with state funding under the terms of the contract described in this document, became the quality work force planning entity in East Texas.

In accordance with the 1989-90 quality work force planning contract, TPO accomplished the following objectives:

1. Selected appropriate regional boundaries.
2. Established appropriate membership size, structure and responsibilities.
3. Produced inventories of regional: a) occupational education programs, b) economic development initiatives, c) current and projected job openings.
4. Evaluated the match between job openings and vocational-technical education and training programs.
5. Developed a regional plan to better coordinate vocational-technical education and training programs with labor market needs.

In accomplishing the above objectives, the TPO staff found a high degree of cooperation among the seventy-five independent school districts, five community colleges and other public agencies. Industry participation varied widely, but for the most part, public sector members expressed a sound appreciation of the need to develop a regional process for collecting, analyzing, distributing and using regional data regarding the coordination of occupational programs with labor market data. The degree of the support provided by the local education agencies was evidenced by cash contributions in excess of eleven thousand dollars. TPO was unique among the pilot projects in its efforts to solicit such contributions from local education agencies.

Some confusion was found regarding the objectives of this and other state and local groups. With adequate communication from the state agencies involved in this project, Quality Work Force Planning is certain to forge a unique network of interrelationships among the education, business and governmental communities in Texas and thus become an important building block in the process of statewide economic recovery.

Acknowledgements

The Technology Partnership Organization for Quality Work Force Planning in East Texas wishes to thank all of the individuals and organizations who contributed so much to a successful first year of funded operation.

Without the vision of Dr. W. A. Mayfield, Professor, UT Tyler, there would not have been a TPO. We are very much in his debt. Other UT Tyler personnel who have provided long-term encouragement and support include: Dr.Robert Cox, Project Planning Facilitator and Dean, School of Education and Psychology; Mr. Ron Wall, Project Fiscal Agent and Chief Fiscal Officer; Dr. W. Clayton Allen, Chairman, Department of Technology and Dr. Thomas Fernandez, Vice President for Academic Affairs. The long-term financial support for TPO provided by The University of Texas at Tyler, Dr. George Hamm, President, deserves special recognition.

We are also indebted to those many individuals in the industry and education communities of East Texas who, especially in the "pre-funding" days, gave unselfishly while we set about to more clearly define our role in the region.

The TPO Board of Directors and members-at-large are extended a very special "thank you" for their efforts.

The project's success is also directly attributable to the spirit of cooperation demonstrated by the administrators of the region's five community colleges and 75 school districts. Their spirit of cooperation and support was truly inspirational.

We also wish to thank Southwestern Bell for their financial contribution.

The enthusiastic support provided by the earlier (and related) projects is also appreciated, especially that provided by: the Interlink, Northeast Texas Community College, Upper Rio Grande Coordinating Committee and the San Antonio Labor Market Information System.

TPO also wishes to thank the representatives of the three funding agencies: Dr. Sally Andrade, Director of Research and Program Planning, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board; Dr. Mark Butler, Planner II, the Texas Education Agency and Mr. James Boyd, Manager, Planning, Evaluation and Coordination: Work Force Development Division, the Texas Department of Commerce.

I. Introduction

This report is submitted to the Texas Education Agency, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board and the Texas Department of Commerce by The University of Texas at Tyler and the Technology Partnership Organization for Quality Work Force Planning in East Texas.

Vocational Education Master Plan

In January of 1987, the State Board of Education and the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board responded to a state directive to prepare a master plan for vocational-technical education and training, They published a document entitled, "Career Opportunities in Texas: A Master Plan for Vocational Education." It was viewed as a guide for conducting vocational education and training programs in preparation for the work force needs of the 21st century.

A number of earlier publications underscored the importance of the close relationship between the preparation of a skilled, flexible and internationally competitive work force and economic vitality. Among these publications was the Hudson Institute report, "Workforce 2000". Guided by the concerns expressed in these publications, the goals and objectives of the Master Plan focused on identifying future, as well as current, demand jobs.

In the months following the approval of the Master Plan, additional state publications reemphasized the importance of preparing a qualified work force. Among them were the recommendations of the Select Committee on Higher Education (February 1988) and the Strategic Economic Policy Commission Report (January, 1989).

Master Plan Updated

In 1989, the Master Plan was updated; it now incorporates three major parts. The first addresses vocational-technical education and training at the elementary and secondary education levels. The second part of the plan highlights activities in the area of higher education.

The third part of the revised Master Plan, entitled, "Achieving and Integrated Delivery System through Regional Planning" describes four strategies for effectively implementing a statewide vocational education planning process, involving:

A. State Inter-agency Cooperation
B. Statewide Planning Initiatives
C. Institutional Linkages
D. Regional Information Source

In this current edition, the Master Plan paves the way for the development of regional planning committees across the state of Texas. The purpose of these committees is to make sure that vocational-technical education and training programs match documented regional labor market needs.

Legislative Mandate

The Master Plan's blueprint for implementing regional planning committees in each of the state's 24 planning regions reinforces a state mandate. With the meeting of the 71st Legislature in 1989, regional planning for vocational-technical education and training became law. However, this legislative requirement actually followed the implementation of six regional planning pilot projects.

Funded Projects

In 1987 three state agencies, the Texas Education Agency (TEA), the Texas Coordinating Board for Higher Education (THECB) and the Texas Department of Commerce (TDOC), funded three pilot regional planning projects using monies form the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Act and the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA). The following year, three additional projects were funded and in 1989 the final three pilot project sites were selected for funding.

Technology Partnership Organization

Among the final three awardees in 1989 was The University of Texas at Tyler. UT Tyler had been supporting a voluntary regional planning project since 1985. This project, the Technology Partnership Organization (TPO), primarily involved representatives from higher education and industry in the fourteen-county region of East Texas. With the awarding of the regional planning contract to UT Tyler in 1989, TPO established much closer working relationships with all educational institutions in East Texas including the region's 75 independent school districts.

Quality Work Force Planning

In the spring of 1990, the term "Regional Planning" was replaced in the literature with the term "Quality Work Force Planning" to more accurately describe the mission of the initiative. Therefore , "Quality Work Force Planning" will be used throughout the remainder of this document.

Final Report, TPO, 1989/90

The report which follows summaries the accomplishment of the goals, objectives and activities required by the tri-agency partnership (TEA, THECB, TDOC) under the terms of this contract.

Summary of Objectives, Activities, Findings and Recommendations

The objectives contained within the Request for Application pursuant to the funding of this contract are excerpted below. Following each of the objectives are the activities, findings and recommendations which relate to the measures taken to fulfill the requirements of the contract.

> OBJECTIVE #1:
> Select regional boundaries for the project. Regional boundaries shall coincide with one of the state planning regions established under the Regional Planning Act of 1965, as amended and codified by the Local Government Code, Chapter 391. Appendix J contains a map of the 24 state planning regions. [Note: Senate Bill 417, approved by the 71st Texas Legislature (regular session), specifies that the State Board of Education shall establish vocational education service delivery regions throughout the state that shall have the same boundaries as the state planning regions.

Activities:

The Technology Partnership Organization was chartered in 1985 as a volunteer regional planning entity. Its overall goal was to promote communication between industry and higher education in the fourteen counties of the East Texas State Planning Region. Therefore, TPO meets the boundary requirements of OBJECTIVE 1.

The counties included in the region are:

Anderson
Camp
Cherokee
Gregg
Harrison
Henderson
Marion
Panola
Rains
Rusk
Smith
Upshur
Van Zandt
Wood

Findings:
N/A

Recommendations:
N/A

OBJECTIVE #2:
Establish an appropriate membership size, structure and set of specific responsibilities for a regional planning committee. The committee may be a newly formed or an existing entity that meets the following membership requirements.

Members drawn from the public sector must comprise fifty percent of the committee. These members shall include representatives from the public independent school districts, adult education cooperatives, apprenticeship programs, education service centers, public community colleges, Texas State Technical Institute (if located within the proposed region), public colleges, public universities, private industry councils, and councils of governments.

Members drawn from the private sector must comprise the remaining 50 percent of the committee. These members shall include representatives from business, industry, economic development entities, and labor, such as chambers of commerce, local trade associations, labor unions, and proprietary training schools.

In addition to the above membership requirements, the regional planning committee shall include nonvoting advisory representatives from the Texas Employment Commission, the Texas Innovation Information Network System (TIINS), Texas State Technical Institute (if not located within the proposed region), and the Texas A&M Engineering Extension Service. Invite these representatives to committee meetings and solicit their advice on pertinent issues. The project shall keep advisory representatives fully informed about project activities. The project may include these individuals as voting members at its discretion.

Applicants must submit with the application the list of committee members organized by public and private sectors with each member's organizational affiliation, address, and telephone number provided. The committee should be established during the application process so that project activities may begin immediately after a contractor is selected.

Applicants shall ensure that the regional planning committee fairly represents the racial and sexual composition of the region.

The regional planning committee shall be generally responsible for overseeing the activities of the project and directing the support activities of the regional planning facilitator and the fiscal agent.

The regional planning committee should consider forming appropriate task forces using members from local program advisory committees when those individuals can provide expertise needed to address a particular issue.

After the project begins, the project staff shall conduct training sessions to properly orient regional planning committee members to the project's objectives, relevant terms and concepts, and the member's roles and responsibilities. The staff also shall develop brief orientation packages and programs for new members who join later. The project staff shall ensure that committee members have the opportunity to participate actively in the project.

After the project begins, project staff shall take an active role in organizing working subcommittees and task forces that focus on the project objectives. Staff should also develop an active executive committee consisting of subcommittee chairs to serve as a source of planning assistance for project activities and meeting preparation. Staff shall also assist the regional planning committee to develop guidelines and/or bylaws to specify operation procedures and the roles, responsibilities, an expectations of committee members.

Activities:

The Technology Partnership Organization for Quality Work Force Planning in East Texas (TPO) has filed for non-profit status under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Service Code. The decision to file for non-profit status was made for two reasons. The first reason was to underscore the separation of TPO from The University of Texas at Tyler. Although UT Tyler initially organized TPO, funded and continues to provide significant in-kind support, it was felt that filing as a separate entity would eliminate any misconception that the University would attempt to dominate the activities of the organization. The second advantage of seeking separate non-profit status was to increase TPO's ability to solicit outside contributions.

A complete copy of TPO by-laws can be found in Appendix B. TPO is made up of a forty-member Board of Directors. The Board meets the requirements of the funding agencies by ensuring that fifty percent of the members are from the private sector and that fifty percent are from the public sector.

Representatives from the agencies mentioned in Objective #1 listed above are seated on the Board.

The racial composition of the Board is as follows:

White	85%
African American	10%
Hispanic	5%
Other	0

The male/female ratio is 80% / 20%. Board members are allowed to hold office in TPO, chair subcommittees and to vote on all official issues.

Officers of the organization include a president, immediate past- president, vice president, treasurer and secretary. They are as follows:

President	Dr. Beryl McKinnerney
Immediate Past-President	Mr. Larry McKee
Vice President	Ms. J. Sue Bell
Treasurer	Mr. John Hart
Secretary	Judge Sandra Hodges

In addition to participation as a member of the Board of Directors, TPO also provides for participation as a member-at-large. Participants in this category can become involved in all activities of the organization but can not vote, chair subcommittees or hold office.

All standing subcommittees are headed by co-chairpersons. There are six subcommittees, each is responsible for completing the specific project objectives as follows:

Administration Subcommittee Co-chairs:
Mr. John Hart, Certified Public Accountant
Mr. Tommy Ferguson, Superintendent, Ore City ISD

Responsible for the ongoing administrative activities of the organization, to include bylaws, articles of incorporation, solicitation of outside contributions, etc.

Communications Subcommittee Co-Chairs:
Mr. Rick Brown, Manager, Economic Development,
United Telephone
Ms. J. Sue Bell, Dir, Occupational & Technical Education
Tyler ISD

Responsible for forwarding TPO information to the participant entities, general public and vested interest groups through the distribution of reports, print and broadcast media, TPO newsletter, etc.

Industry Liaison Subcommittee Co-chairs:
Mr. Vernon Dougherty, Vice-President of Manufacturing
Colt Industries (Stemco)
Mr. Ernest Brewster, Director of Support Services,
Carthage ISD

Responsible for working with regional industries to identify occupational and training needs, validation of labor market information and to build a stronger relationship between education and industry in East Texas.

Labor Market Information (LMI) Subcommittee Co-chairs:
Mr. Tom Mullins, Executive Director
Tyler Economic Development Council
Ms. Carrita Mitchell, Director, Data Analysis
The University of Texas Health Center at Tyler

Responsible for the operation of the labor market information (LMI) system and for conducting the economic development initiatives inventory.

Special Programs Subcommittee Co-chairs:
Mr. Wendell Holcombe, Dir of Training & Economic Development
East Texas Council of Governments
Ms. Sandra Crisler, Regional Director
Texas Employment Commission

Responsible for addressing the unique education and training needs of special populations, to include disabled, high achievers, at-risk, displaced workers, etc.

Technical/Vocational Subcommittee Co-chairs:
Dr. Jerry King, Dean, Occupational Education
Trinity Valley Community College
Mr. Larry McKee, Vice-President
The Trane Company

Responsible for developing and implementing the occupational education and training program inventory and for promoting the sharing of information and resources within the region.

An Executive Director, Dr. John Fabac, Associate Professor, The University of Texas at Tyler, serves at the pleasure of the Board of Directors. Dr. Fabac works in this capacity on a half-time basis. Forty percent of this half-time assignment is covered with an in-kind contribution provided by UT Tyler. Sixty percent is funded by this contract.

During the course of this contract year, the funded TPO staff, also included:

Assistant Director	Mr. Glynn Richards
Project Secretary	Ms. Nancy Bass
System Manager	Mr. David Krape

Findings:

Complete listings of the Board of Directors, members-at-large, subcommittee co-chairpersons can be found in Appendix A. By-laws are found in Appendix B and the organization's Articles of Incorporation are included in Appendix C.

Recommendations:

1. Applicants for the regional planning contracts were required to secure the signatures of representatives of all of the public sector educational agencies as part of the application process. The project manager found this exercise to be of considerable value and recommends that it be maintained as a requirement in subsequent related projects.

Meeting the public school, community/junior college officials and representatives of other local education agencies (LEA's) provided an invaluable opportunity to clarify the purpose and benefits of the project and to build beneficial relationships across a variety of real and imagined boundaries.

2. Objective #2 mandated the participation of an incredibly complex array of regional planning committee members representing a large number of different agencies and organizations. It was further complicated by the requirement of a 50/50 split between public and private sectors, an appropriate racial balance and an acceptable male/female ratio. Also, to ensure a needed atmosphere of ownership among the committee members, the project staff attempted to secure representation from all fourteen counties circumscribed by the regional boundaries.

Meeting all of these requirements and concerns was nearly impossible to accomplish while ensuring that the members would sincerely commit to the accomplishment of the project's objectives. TPO's records indicate that several of the committee members did not frequently, if at all, attend the meetings. Some of these members were selected singularly for the purpose of fulfilling one or more of the membership balance requirements.

The project staff suggests consideration be given to incorporating a period of flexibility for meeting membership requirements.

3. The records maintained for the organizational meetings indicate a low level of attendance for private sector members in particular. To improve this situation, it is recommended that the awarding agencies attempt to communicate to the state's industry and commerce communities that quality work force planning is a priority item; that it is supported by our state officials and that it implements an important measure of accountability and will improve our states' ability to compete nationally and internationally.

4. While recruiting membership for the Quality Work Force Planning committee, it was noted that there was a lot of confusion in both the local educational agency and industry arenas with regard to other state sponsored activities. Specific problems centered around two activities, the Technology Plan required by the Texas Education Agency, and the Educational Summits sponsored by the Texas Chambers of Commerce and the Business and Education Coalition.

It is recommended that steps be taken by the appropriate sponsoring agencies in the foregoing to communicate their respective missions and to promote collaboration.

5. The funding agencies should give consideration to the fact that when quality work force planning committees are funded, they are, in fact, empowered to produce a "regional" plan. As such, the plan will inherently reflect the concerns of the individuals residing in the region. Objectives may be identified by the committee which will be unique to their regional perspective. This moderate degree of discord should be welcomed by the funding agencies as an additional opportunity for problem identification and resolution.

OBJECTIVE #3:

Conduct during the first six months of the project period the following activities. The purpose of conducting these activities is to gather information for use in developing the operational plan required under Objective #5.

a. Produce an inventory of the existing occupational education and training programs and resources of independent school districts, education service centers, community colleges, technical institutes, proprietary schools, public and private colleges and universities, private industry councils, and other entities that have responsibilities for occupational education and training in the region.

At the secondary level, distinguish between occupationally specific training courses based on labor market demand that are offered in grades 11 and 12 and other occupationally non-specific courses offered in grades 7-12.

Include apprenticeship programs and adult education and literacy programs in the inventory.

Activities:

The Technical/Vocational Subcommittee was responsible for producing an inventory of existing vocational-technical education and training programs at independent school districts, education service centers, community/junior colleges, public and private colleges and universities, private industry councils, proprietary schools and other entities that conduct occupational education and training programs in the region.

As a first step, all school districts within the planning region were identified. The subcommittee used the Vocational Program Head-Count Report (an unduplicated head-count of students enrolled in vocational education courses between July 1, 1989, and February 2, 1990). This information was furnished by the Texas Education Agency in the form of a print-out and computer diskette. A software package, titled "Follow.Dat", was also supplied to manipulate this data.

Post-secondary institutions, proprietary schools and other public and private institutions offering occupational education and training programs were identified and contacted by the subcommittee to verify programs. Additionally, data compiled by the Education and Training Clearinghouse, Vocational Technical Program Inventory, under the auspicious of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, was supplied by the regional community/junior colleges.

Findings:

The subcommittee identified seventy-five (75) independent school districts, five (5) public community/junior colleges, two (2) private two-year post-secondary institutions, one (1) public university, six (6) private four-year post-secondary institutions, fourteen (14) proprietary schools, four (4) sites for apprenticeship training, one (1) private industry council, and thirty-nine (39) adult basic education and literacy programs.

In Appendix D is an inventory of all occupational education and training programs identified in the East Texas region. Included in the inventory of secondary education programs are special populations by number of disadvantaged, handicapped, and limited English proficiency students. Programs that are occupation specific are those programs which prepare students for entry level employment and are identified with an asterisk (*). All other programs, such as technology education and industrial arts, are not occupation specific.

The Follow.Dat software package provided by the Texas Education Agency made it possible to convert the 8-digit course codes for all secondary vocational courses to the Classification of Instructional Program (CIP) code (the U.S. Office of Education official coding structure used to classify occupational education and training programs). Post-Secondary programs were identified by CIP code whenever possible.

Recommendations:

The secondary school data is approximately one year old when received by Technology Partnership Organization. The subcommittee feels it would be more practical for users of TPO labor market information to have access to the most current statistics. Validation of program data through direct contact with each ISD may be a viable solution. Superintendents serving on TPO committees were unanimous in supporting this validation measure.

CIP codes for proprietary school programs would provide for a more accurate analysis when matching programs to target occupations. This would also be helpful in the development of a directory of occupational education and training programs for East Texas.

b. Produce an inventory of existing economic development initiatives within the region and identify any related training needs.

Activities:

The Labor Market Information (LMI) Subcommittee was responsible for producing and inventory of existing economic development initiatives within the region and identifying related training needs. An economic development initiative was defined as "a support service provided by an organization to encourage the growth of existing enterprises or to aid in the establishment of new enterprises for the purpose of expanding economic growth and vitality".

The subcommittee met and determined that the best method for identifying economic development initiatives in the East Texas region would be to conduct a survey. They found it necessary to divide the survey process into two phases. In the first phase, the draft of a questionnaire was developed by the subcommittee (see Appendix E for surveys used to inventory economic development initiatives). This questionnaire was then mailed to all chambers of commerce and city managers to identify organizations involved in economic development efforts in the region. The subcommittee met again to develop a second and more detailed version of the questionnaire. The second version was mailed to each organization identified in the first phase. Telephone follow-up calls were conducted. It possible to maximize the response with a turn-around time of forty-five (45) days in each phase.

Findings:

Appendix F contains a list of fifty-three (53) economic development initiatives and their related training needs. Most of the economic development organizations reported that there were no related training needs. However, some anticipated the need for training in the near future.

After examining the results of the survey findings, the subcommittee was satisfied that this effort systematically documented the extent of participation of these organizations in economic development activities and their related training needs.

They also felt that this information would be vital to other groups, organizations, or agencies with a need for information regarding the availability of support services in East Texas. In light of this, the subcommittee proposed that a directory of economic development support services for East Texas be developed and distributed to the chambers of commerce, economic development groups, government agencies, schools, and other entities who might need or have contact with those needing this information. This activity was also an objective of the Plan Development Committee and incorporated into the operational plan for 1990 - 1991.

Recommendations:

The subcommittee emphasized the importance of maintaining up-to-date information regarding economic development initiatives. To stay abreast of economic development activity, it would be necessary to conduct ongoing surveys of these initiatives and expand the questionnaire mailout to include others who might be involved in economic development (e.g., utility companies).

c. Produce an inventory of regional industries and occupations within those industries with presently available job openings and projected future job openings. The planning methodology used by private industry councils shall be used for this purpose.

All applicants must use the Statewide Labor Market Information System maintained by the State Occupational Information Coordinating Committee (SOICC) as a primary data source. Other data sources may be used to augment this primary data, but the applicant must ensure that data standards for regionally-developed information systems are compatible with statewide data standards. If selected to conduct a project, the applicant must consult regularly with SOICC staff to ensure this compatibility.

Activities:

The Industry Liaison Subcommittee was responsible for producing an inventory of regional industries and occupations within those industries with present and projected job openings. The planning method used by the private industry councils was used for this purpose. This method consisted of the use of the Statewide Labor Market Information System maintained by the State Occupational Information Coordinating Committee (SOICC) as a primary data source. SOICC was also provided software for use in the development of the Technology Partnership Organization Labor Market Information System. This software was installed on November 3, 1989.

The subcommittee met and discussed the steps to be taken in the planning process for identifying occupations having the best potential for growth (targeted occupations) in the region. With the SOICC software in place, industries were ranked according to growth, using quarterly Texas Employment Commission data for East Texas (i.e., industry employment data). This data was keyed into a software model called INDEVAL (Industry Evaluation Model). This model produces a quotient (a number used for ranking), derived through the use of weighting factors (numbers assigned to express their relative importance by frequency of occurrence). This quotient was used to best describe industry events and job growth (e.g., employment projections, number of business establishments, job openings, potential new hires, index of aggregate hours, etc.).

The subcommittee again met to evaluate the results of this process and made adjustments that were applicable to the East Texas region. A prioritized list of growth industries was produced and coded with 2-digit Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes. This is a coding system maintained by the U.S. Office of Management and Budget which provides definitions and codings of industries based on the products or services rendered. The larger the coding number, the narrower the definition of the product or service [e.g., hospitals (806) make up 41% of health services (80) in East Texas].

Additional information was used to expand the 2-digit SIC codes to 3-digit SIC codes. This 3-digit list was keyed into MATSTAT (Matrix Statistical System), a software model which prioritizes occupations according to state staffing patterns (e.g., the percentage of supervisors, secretaries, maintenance personnel, etc. needed to support a given industry). The subcommittee further refined this data with the input of key individuals in business and education and the use of classified advertisements for employment opportunities. They then produced a list of twenty-seven (27) targeted occupations. To be considered as a targeted occupation, a minimum of seventy (70) annual job openings were required. For some occupations, the overall forecasted percentage of growth from 1985 to 1995 was extremely high. For other occupations, the growth-to-replacement ratio (the number of new job openings created divided by the number of job openings due to replacement) was greater than one (1). In these cases, exceptions were made and the occupations were recognized as targeted occupations, provided they met with state criteria. Qualification, in the state of Texas, for selection as a targeted occupation required a Specific Vocational Preparation Training (SVPT) time (the training code maintained by the Bureau of Labor Statistics) to be three (3) or greater [i.e., three (3) is over 30 days up to and including 3 months], a positive growth-to-replacement ratio, and a wage rate of $5.00 or greater.

Findings:

Table 1, Table 1A, Table 2, Table 2A, Table 3A and Table 4 have been included in the following. Table 1 illustrates the output from the INDEVAL software model. It was suggested by the subcommittee that the weights be varied from the default weights (the weights that were established as a standard when the INDEVAL software was installed); however, there was very little difference in the output when this occurred and the default weights were maintained. Table 1A illustrates the potential list of target industries and the final list of target industries with the justification for why the potential list was modified.

The occupations denoted by and asterisk (*) in Table 2 and Table 2A were derived from data gathered from personnel directors, training instructors, and job placement officers in the East Texas region. These contacts were made because many of the placements for employment in these occupations do not transpire through the normal processes conduct by the Texas Employment Commission. Therefore data was not available.

Each targeted occupation found in the final list in Table 2 is identified by OES (Occupational Employment Statistic) code. This is the number assigned by the Bureau of Labor Statistics to classify occupations. Also, indicated for each targeted occupation in Table 2 is the projected average yearly openings, the percentage change in employment from 1985 to 1995, the growth-to-replacement ratio, the average wage per hour, and the SVPT (Specific Vocational Preparation Training) time. In some cases there are blanks. This means there was insufficient statistical information to provide a meaningful entry.

In Table 3A, justification is given for each final target occupation along with the steps for validation. Table 4 illustrates the method of training, duration of training, and basic competencies/skills attained for each targeted occupation. Supplemental labor market data can be found in Appendix G.

M Method of Training is classroom/academic, on-the-job (OJT) or a combination (OJT/classroom).

N Duration of Training may be expressed as course contact hours or specific vocational preparation training (SVPT) times.

O Basic competencies include specific skills--equipment/tools--techniques which will comprise the training program.

Recommendations:

The subcommittee suggested that a survey be developed for use in sampling industries in regard to occupations with growth potential in the East Texas region. This could be used in conjunction with data provided by the Texas Employment Commission to more accurately identify target occupations in the region.

There is no one resource which lists the businesses and industries in the region (i.e., by name, address, number of employees, products/services, etc.). Therefore, the subcommittee recommended a directory of industries in East Texas be developed and maintained.

d. Evaluate the match between existing and projected occupational supply and existing and projected occupational demand in the region to determine if existing occupational education and training programs are meeting the needs of students for training in demand occupations and the needs of business and industry for workers trained for demand occupations. Particular attention should be paid to occupationally specific programs. Produce an inventory of occupational education and training programs that train individuals for occupations that are currently in demand in the region and for occupations that will be in demand in the region in the future.

Based upon this evaluation, produce a list of priority occupations and related programs for the region. When developing this list, consider appropriate labor market variables such as an occupation's projected average annual openings, growth-to-replacement ratio, required training time, and average hourly wage rate.

Submit to the Project Coordinator by March 1, 1990, five copies of a report containing the information and findings developed to meet this objective.

Activities:

The Labor Market Information subcommittee was responsible for evaluating the match between the existing and projected occupational supply and existing and projected occupational demand in the region. This was done to determine if existing occupational education and training programs were meeting labor market needs for targeted occupations.

The subcommittee used the findings from Objective 3A (program inventory) and Objective 3C (targeted occupations) to evaluate this match. The Occupational Employment Statistic (OES) code for each targeted occupation was keyed into a software model called CROSSWALK, which matched OES codes to appropriate CIP (Classification of Instructional Program) codes. The CIP codes were then used to identify vocational-technical education and training programs in the region which supported targeted occupations.

Findings:

Table 3, which follows, illustrates supply and demand for targeted occupations and related programs in East Texas. Each targeted occupation is identified by occupational title and by OES code. Below each targeted occupation is the CIP code and the title of the program(s) offered which support(s) the occupation. There were forty-one (41) programs identified that support targeted occupations. Most targeted occupations have corresponding training programs available in East Texas to some degree. There were two targeted occupations identified for which no appropriate supporting occupational education program could be found within the region. These occupations were General Maintenance Repair and Medical Records Technician.

Recommendations:

The subcommittee suggested that steps be taken to encourage the development of programs for General Maintenance Repair and Medical Records Technician.

OBJECTIVE #4:

Support the activities of the Texas Innovation Information Network System (TIINS) within the region. This support will consist of assisting the TIINS project to select industry focus groups, reviewing products developed by the TIINS project, and coordinating activities with the TIINS project on an as-needed basis specified by the Project Coordinator.

Applicants should obtain information about TIINS by contacting Dan Morrison, Associate Director of TIINS, Infomart, Box 471, 1950 Stemmons Freeway, Dallas, Texas 75207, (214) 746-5140.

Activities:

TPO has worked cooperatively with TIINS. TIINS data regarding emerging technologies and emerging occupations were used in the process of determining targeted occupations for the region. Mr. Dan Morrison of the TIINS organization addressed the TPO Industry Liaison subcommittee on January 16, 1990.

Findings:

TIINS continues to be a viable resource for quality work force planning activities.

Recommendations:

The relationship between TIINS and the quality work force planning committees should continue.

OBJECTIVE #5:

Using the information and findings gathered to meet objectives #3 and #4, develop an operational plan for the region for the period July 1, 1990, through June 30, 1991. The plan shall be based upon regional priority occupations and related programs, services, and activities identified by the regional planning and May 31, 1990. Plan implementation shall occur between July 1, 1990, and June 30, 1991.

The plan must contain a mission statement, goals, objectives related to each goal, and specific activities related to each objective. The plan must identify subcommittee responsibilities for each objective. The plan also must contain criteria by which project staff can assess the degree to which goals and objectives are being achieved.

The plan should be feasible in terms of the project's anticipated financial resources, the staff assigned to the project, and committee members available to assist the project. The plan also be feasible in terms of the type and number of activities scheduled and the timelines for completion of those activities.

The plan should foster a forum within which representatives of private industry councils, independent school districts, community colleges, technical institutes, proprietary schools, and public and private colleges and universities in the region effectively plan, coordinate, and use occupational training programs and resources based upon the best available labor market information. The plan's goals, objectives, and activities should focus on:

a. initiating or redirecting programs, services, and activities in accordance with priorities identified by the regional planning committee;

b. facilitating articulation of priority programs;

c. sharing resources related to priority programs;

d. improving communication between training entities and sharing innovative ideas to improve the quality of priority programs;

e. supporting economic development initiatives; and

f. obtaining independent contributions of funds, equipment, facilities, or personnel from private sector entities.

Supporting documentation for the plan should be placed in appendixes and should be brief, pertinent, and written for the layperson.

The plan must be reviewed by the membership of the full regional planning committee and approved by at least two-thirds of the membership of the full committee. Submit five copies of the approved plan to the Project Coordinator by June 1, 1990.

Activities:

The operational plan was completed in accordance with the requirements stated above. As a means of identifying the goals, objectives and activities for the plan, an ad-hoc subcommittee was formed.

The subcommittee included ten ISD representatives, one from each of five multi-county "zones" within the region described by the TPO Board to ensure wide representation. Other ad-hoc subcommittee members included the Deans of Occupational Education from the five community/junior colleges whose districts lie within the region and five representatives from industry. Additional guest participants were invited to the two plan development sessions.

Ad-hoc subcommittee members for the development of the plan can be found in Appendix A.

It shall be a defense to any such action that such indemnification or advancement of costs of defense are not permitted under the Texas Non-Profit Corporation Act, but the burden of proving such defense shall be on the Corporation. Neither the failure of the Corporation (including its board of directors or any committee thereof, special legal counsel, or members, if any) to have made its determination prior to the commencement of such action that indemnification of, or advancement of costs of defense to, the claimant is permissible in the circumstances nor an actual determination by the Corporation (including its board of directors or any committee thereof, special legal counsel, or members, if any) that such indemnification or advancement is not permissible shall be a defense to the action or create a presumption that such indemnification or advancement is not permissible. In the event of the death of any person having a right of indemnification under the foregoing provisions, such right shall inure to the benefit of his heirs, executors, administrators, and personal representatives. The rights conferred above shall not be exclusive of any other right which any person may have or hereafter acquire under any statute, bylaw, resolution of members, if any, or directors agreement, or otherwise. To the extent permitted by then applicable law, the grant of mandatory indemnification to any person pursuant to this Article shall extend to proceedings involving the negligence of such persons. The Corporation may additionally indemnify any person covered by the grant of mandatory indemnification contained above to such further extent as is permitted by law and may indemnify any other person to the fullest extent permitted by law. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no person shall be indemnified pursuant to the provisions of this Article in relation to any tax asserted against such persons under Chapter 42 of the Code. As used herein, the term "proceeding" means any threatened, pending, or completed action, suit, or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative, arbitrative, or investigative, any appeal in such an action, suit, or proceeding, and any inquiry or investigation that could lead to such an action, suit, or proceeding.

ARTICLE XIV.

To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no director of the Corporation shall be liable to the Corporation for monetary damages for an act or omission in such director's capacity as a director of the Corporation, except that this paragraph shall not eliminate or limit the liability of a director of the Corporation for:

(i) a breach of such director's duty of loyalty to the Corporation;

(ii) an act or omission not in good faith or that involves intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of the law;

(iii) a transaction from which such director received an improper benefit, whether or not the benefit resulted from an action taken within the scope of such director's office;

(iv) an act or omission for which the liability of such director is expressly provided for statute; or

(v) an act related to an unlawful stock repurchase or payment of a dividend.

Any repeal or amendment of this paragraph by the Corporation shall be prospective only, and shall not adversely affect any limitation on the personal liability of a director of the Corporation existing at the time of such repeal or amendment. In addition to the circumstances in which a director of the Corporation is not personally liable as set forth in the foregoing provisions, a director shall not be liable to the Corporation to such further extent as permitted by any law hereafter enacted, including without limitation, any subsequent amendments of the Texas Miscellaneous Corporation Laws Act or the Texas Non-Profit Corporation Act.

These articles of incorporation may be amended from time to time as provided in the Texas Non-Profit Corporation Act; provided, however, that no amendment shall be made which would alter the exclusive charitable, educational, literary and scientific purposes set forth in Article IV, or would cause any benefit to inure to any officer, director, incorporator, donor or donors.
